SAT 09:00 Saturday Morning (m002ft77)

Violinist Théotime Langlois de Swarte talks Proms debuts!

Tom Service has guests, stories and the perfect classical soundtrack to start your weekend!

Described as "mesmerizing" by the New Yorker, the French violinist Théotime Langlois de Swarte is in town to make his Proms debut and he pops into the Saturday Morning studio with harpsichordist Justin Taylor to give us a sneak preview of his high-octane, virtuosic playing style. He chats to Tom about how to bring the dance into performing and why he's on a mission to breathe new life into centuries-old music.

British composer Tom Coult's new piece is given its world premiere at the Proms this week and he talks to Tom about why his music is all about Hendrix and harmonicas, ooziness and ghosts and the influences behind his bewitching sound worlds.

Plus Tom pays tribute to the conductor Sir Roger Norrington, who died this weekend aged 91 - Sir Roger leaves one of the richest legacies of any conductor of the 20th and 21st centuries and his landmark recordings of Beethoven symphonies remain as 'fresh as paint' today. Tom talks to Nicholas Kenyon who knew him well about his huge contribution to music, and we hear Sir Roger from the Radio 3 archives.

SAT 12:00 Earlier... with Jools Holland (m002ft79)

Jools shares his Proms highlights

Jools shares his lifelong passion for classical music and the beautiful connections with jazz and blues. With fascinating guests each week, who bring their own favourite music and occasionally perform live in Jools's studio.

Today, Jools picks some of his highlights from this year's Proms season including music by Bach, Oscar Peterson and Arvo Part, with performances by Andras Schiff and Anoushka Shankar. His guest is the pianist Joe Webb who will be performing with his trio at the Proms at The Fire Station in Sunderland. Joe chooses recordings he loves by Arthur Rubinstein, Bryn Terfel and Fats Waller.

A View From The Organ Loft

Boardwalk Hall, Atlantic City

Anna is in Atlantic City, New Jersey, to visit the Boardwalk Hall organ, which holds multiple world records. Anna demonstrates how much slower she has to play a piece to make it audible in such an enormous space, and shares some of the few recordings that have been made on that instrument. She also finds that there is more to Atlantic City than its organ with 1,235 stop tabs. She explores a barbershop quartet that takes you back in time to the area's days as a holiday resort, and discovers recordings by musicians based in and around New Jersey including composer Betty Jackson King and the Attacca Quartet. We also hear from Nathan Bryson, Curator of Organs at Boardwalk Hall, about the second, smaller organ lurking in the same hall.

Plus, an exclusive version of Widor's Toccata for spontaneous organ duet where Anna is joined by 9-year old Nykoda...

Miho Hazama, conductor

A No. 1 album and a double Grammy-win in 2023 put Samara Joy on the map, establishing the young American artist as 'the next jazz sensation' and 'a legend in the making', regularly compared to Ella Fitzgerald and Sarah Vaughan. Fresh from another double win at this year's Grammys, Joy makes a much-anticipated Proms debut, introducing audiences to her electric combination of youthful energy and old-soul musical style with classic songs and unique twists on instrumental classics from across jazz and its fringes, from bossa nova to the Great American Songbook. She salutes figures including Sarah Vaughan, Ella Fitzgerald, Duke Ellington, Billie Holiday, Charles Mingus and Oscar Peterson.

SAT 21:45 Sunday Feature (m001n267)

Nu Yorica

Recorded on location in Lower Manhattan, the Bronx and Spanish Harlem ('El Barrio'), jazz writer and broadcaster Kevin Le Gendre explores the history, art and politics of the Latin music scene in New York City from the 1950s to the present – the city that gave birth to salsa.

New York's Latino community has always been a source of artistic richness, with messages of political identity and social struggle never far from the sheer excitement of the music. To be Nu Yorican was to be born in New York City from Puerto Rican descent, drawing on the sounds and rhythms of Cuba and blending them with the sounds of jazz and soul into a unique set of musical forms and styles that took the world by storm.

The hugely vibrant music scene of 'El Barrio', which produced a wealth of amazing artists in the 1950s and '60s from Tito Puente and Ray Barreto to Eddie Palmieri and Joe Bataan, gave birth to a uniquely Nu Yorican music that became a worldwide sensation - salsa. Drawing on its limitless musical energy, the Fania Records label became the Motown of US Latin music, reaching huge listening audiences and drawing on an incredible roster of artists. On the streets of Harlem and the Bronx, in the jazz clubs and dance-halls, Latino and African American musicians played together and mixed styles – the fusion of Latin music with jazz and soul - to create thrilling hybrids such as Afro-Cuban, Latin-Jazz and Latin Soul as well as salsa itself.

The Latino community in New York drew from the African American experience politically as well as musically. Both groups were subject to racism, poor housing, high unemployment and over-policing. Both groups organised coordinated breakfast and welfare programmes, health centres, libraries and places of cultural learning. Political consciousness, through the medium of poetry and spoken word, offered a route out of the gang culture, which was rife in Spanish Harlem (as we hear from Joe Bataan, Felipe Luciano and others). This feature also tells the story of San Juan Hill, once home to a huge Latino community, demolished by Robert Moses to make way for the Lincoln Centre. The 1961 movie adaptation of West Side Story was filmed in the rubble.

Hearing from musicians living and playing in New York, some going back to the origins of salsa, this deeply musical feature showcases the energy and style of Nu Yorican music in all its forms and musical hybrids as Kevin explores the role of music in building a narrative of community.

Contributors include the founder of Latin soul Joe Bataan, former member of the Last Poets Felipe Luciano, spoken word artist and director of The Nu Yorican Poets Café Caridad de la Luz (aka 'La Bruja'), Fania Records producer and arranger Harvey Averne, historian Johanna Fernandez, veteran percussionist and Tito Puente's conga player Chembo Corniel, Latin House and Nu Yorican Soul producer 'Little' Louie Vega and British curator of Fania Records archive Dean Rudland, composer and salsa bandleader Bobby Sanabria and Latin-soul aficionado Lenny Thomas.

Cantoría at the York Early Music Festival

Hannah French presents a concert given by the young Spanish early music ensemble Cantoría at the recent York Festival of Early Music.

The joy and optimism of Spanish popular music is blended with the mysticism and devotion of jácaras and villancicos in the Spanish Baroque. Cantoría is an ensemble of vocalists and violinists, who bring these fascinating 17th-century works to life. Known as villancicos, the pieces are full of colour, syncopation, humour, and biblical stories, once used by bishops to draw the faithful to Mass, ensuring they left the churches with a smile.

Conductor Mark Wigglesworth

All swagger, originality and 'orgiastic power', one of the great 20th-century symphonies, Walton's Symphony No. 1, put the composer on the map – as the heir to both Elgar and Sibelius. Ravel's jazz-infused, darkly atmospheric Piano Concerto for the Left Hand also breaks new ground: only one hand plays, though the ear hears all the richness of two. McCarthy – the world's only professional one-handed concert pianist – makes his Proms debut. The Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra opens its first Prom under new Chief Conductor Mark Wigglesworth with Shostakovich's jovial Suite for Variety Orchestra, packed with tunes from the composer's music for ballet, theatre and cinema.

MON 16:00 Composer of the Week (m002fwmz)
Pyotr Il'yich Tchaikovsky (1840-1893)

The Russian Summer

Donald Macleod explores Tchaikovsky's life away from home. He spent significant parts of his peak years travelling or staying with friends, and a remarkable amount of his music was composed whilst staying with friends, on holiday or concert tours, or sometimes as a fugitive on the run. This evolved into a full decade of rootless wandering, which is peculiar given his frequent homesickness for Russia.

Today, we look at Tchaikovsky's early Grand Tour of northern Europe, taking in Germany, France, the Ukraine, Belgium, Finland and the UK, where he heard Handel's Messiah performed in the Crystal Palace.

Gustav Mahler: Symphony No. 7

Allan Clayton, tenor
BBC Philharmonic Orchestra
John Storgårds, conductor

Night-time darkness and blazing musical sunlight collide in Mahler's Symphony No. 7 – a musical epic that packs the whole world into five contrasting movements. Vast orchestral forces – including mandolin, cowbells and guitar – conjure a shifting landscape of waltzes, serenades, fanfares, marches and mysterious 'night-wandering' – by turns romantic and humorous, sardonic and sincere. To open, John Storgårds conducts the BBC Philharmonic Orchestra and tenor Allan Clayton in the world premiere of award-winning composer Tom Coult's Monologues for the Curious, inspired by the ghost stories of M. R. James.

MON 23:30 'Round Midnight (m002fwn9)

Annie Whitehead's 4/4

'Round Midnight is presented by award-winning saxophonist Soweto Kinch. This weekday late-night show celebrates the thriving UK jazz scene and spotlights the best new music alongside incredible acts from past decades.

This week Soweto is joined by leading UK trombonist Annie Whitehead. After leaving school at 16 to join Ivy Benson's pioneering all female big band, Annie has gone on to forge a career as a formidable instrumentalist, working with fellow UK based artists including Penguin Cafe Orchestra, Chris McGregor's Brotherhood of Breath, Lol Coxhill, and Working Week, as well as releasing as a solo artist.

From Monday this Thursday Annie will be taking us round her record collection and sharing some of the music that has helped shape her musical journey so far. Tonight, she begins with a release arranged by one of jazz's greatest composers.

Plus there's music from Robin Jones Seven, Poppy Daniels, and Marla Kether with Naima Adams.

Adventures in Italy

Donald Macleod explores Tchaikovsky's life away from home. He spent significant parts of his peak years travelling or staying with friends, and a remarkable amount of his music was composed whilst staying with friends, on holiday or concert tours, or sometimes as a fugitive on the run. This evolved into a full decade of rootless wandering, which is peculiar given his frequent homesickness for Russia.

Today, we look at Tchaikovsky's travels through various locations across Italy. The composer sought the southern sunshine partly as solace following his brief, disastrous marriage, accounts of which read as a not-very-inspired screenplay.

Berlioz's 'Symphonie fantastique'

Live at the BBC Proms: The BBC Philharmonic Orchestra and conductor Anja Bihlmaier with guitarist Sean Shibe perform the world premiere of ZEBRA by Mark Simpson plus music by Strauss and Berlioz.

Presented by Tom Service, live from the Royal Albert Hall, London

Richard Strauss: Death and Transfiguration
Mark Simpson: ZEBRA (or, 2-3-74: The Divine Invasion of Philip K. Dick) BBC commission: world premiere

c.8.30pm

Interval: Composer Mark Simpson joins cultural historian Matthew Sweet and presenter Tom Service to discuss the writing of Philip K Dick, the American science-fiction author whose work has inspired films including Blade Runner and Minority Report, and Simpson's piece ZEBRA

c.8.50pm

Hector Berlioz: Symphonie fantastique

Sean Shibe, electric guitar
BBC Philharmonic Orchestra
Anja Bihlmaier, conductor

A concert of larger-than-life sounds, stories and characters has Berlioz's Symphonie fantastique at its heart. Heady, opium-fuelled visions create a kaleidoscopic sequence: a swirling ballroom, a march to the scaffold and a witches' sabbath, all set to the obsessive pulse of unrequited love. Sci-fi legend Philip K. Dick inspires Mark Simpson's ZEBRA, a new concerto for maverick guitarist and former BBC Radio 3 New Generation Artist Sean Shibe. The concert opens with Strauss's Death and Transfiguration - no less than a musical struggle between life and death, climaxing in a promise of eternal peace.

Bewitching sounds for after dark

Sara Mohr-Pietsch presents an adventurous, immersive soundtrack for late-night listening, from classical to contemporary and everything in between.

TUE 23:30 'Round Midnight (m002fx0r)

Highlights from Giacomo Smith's 1925

'Round Midnight is presented by award-winning saxophonist Soweto Kinch. This weekday late-night show celebrates the thriving UK jazz scene and spotlights the best new music alongside incredible acts from past decades.

British trombonist Annie Whitehead is back with a second 4/4 selection of the week. Tonight, she chooses an album helmed by an artist she deeply admires.

There's also music from Necktr, Yiasena, Emily Tran, and from Giacomo Smith's 1925, a band brought together by the Italian born, American clarinettist and saxophonist to summon the sound of 1920s Harlem, as part of BBC Radio 4's "New York 1925" series. That's available to listen to on BBC Sounds now.

The band featured Giacomo Smith, trumpeter Laura Jurd, trombonist Daniel Higham, banjoist Alexander Boulton, pianist Joe Webb, drummer Corrie Dick, and Soweto on saxophone.

WED 16:00 Composer of the Week (m002ftls)

Pyotr Il'yich Tchaikovsky (1840-1893)

The lost decade 1878-1888 (Part 1)

Donald Macleod explores Tchaikovsky's life away from home. He spent significant parts of his peak years travelling or staying with friends, and a remarkable amount of his music was composed whilst staying with friends, on holiday or concert tours, or sometimes as a fugitive on the run. This evolved into a full decade of rootless wandering, which is peculiar given his frequent homesickness for Russia.

Today, we look at the first part of T's so-called Lost Decade of wandering – primarily in Italy – and we explore the unconventional relationship he had with his chief benefactor, Nadezhda von Meck.

Boulez and Berio: 20th-Century Giants

Live at the BBC Proms: Ensemble intercontemporain conducted by Pierre Bleuse in a concert of sonic theatre with live electronics in music by Pierre Boulez and Luciano Berio.

Presented by Tom Service, live from the Royal Albert Hall, London.

Berio: *Sequenza V*Boulez: *Dialogue de l'ombre double*Berio: Recital I (for Cathy)

Sarah Aristidou, soprano

Jérôme Comte, clarinet

Lucas Ounissi, trombone

IRCAM, live electronics

Ensemble intercontemporain

Pierre Bleuse, conductor

This season we celebrate the careers of 20th-century game-changers Pierre Boulez and Luciano Berio, whose inventive, iconoclastic legacies continue to echo through the sounds, styles and techniques of today. The Ensemble intercontemporain – founded by Boulez in 1976 – and Pierre Bleuse celebrate the pair in a concert full of sonic theatre. Boulez's tour de force for clarinet, the shadow-duet Dialogue de l'ombre double, meets Berio's allusive, tragicomic music-drama Recital I, which remixes opera's history via the composer's own distinctive imagination. Tragicomedy also streaks through Berio's Sequenza V, which prompts a solo trombonist to explore a plethora of unlikely playing (and vocal) techniques.

Pyotr Il'yich Tchaikovsky (1840-1893)

The lost decade 1878-1888 (Part 2)

Donald Macleod explores Tchaikovsky's life away from home. He spent significant parts of his peak years travelling or staying with friends, and a remarkable amount of his music was composed whilst staying with friends, on holiday or concert tours, or sometimes as a fugitive on the run. This evolved into a full decade of rootless wandering, which is peculiar given his frequent homesickness for Russia.

Today, we look at the second half of the so-called Lost Decade of Tchaikovsky's life. We find the composer no longer travelling so far and wide across Europe, but largely back in Russia, though still not settling down...

Sakari Oramo, conductor

Mischievous tricksters and magical fairy tales meet in a fantastical programme from Sakari Oramo and the BBC Symphony Orchestra. Incurable troublemaker Till Eulenspiegel is up to no good in the witty, light-footed antics of Strauss's tone-poem. A clever monkey faces off against a lion in the UK premiere of American composer Anthony Davis's Tales (Tails) of the Signifying Monkey and a nightingale must charm Death to spare the Emperor of China in Stravinsky's The Song of the Nightingale. At the heart of the programme is one of the great Romantic violin concertos: Augustin Hadelich is the soloist in Mendelssohn's vivacious, melody-filled masterpiece.

Jay Capperauld: Bruckner's Skull

Ludwig van Beethoven: Symphony No. 5 in C minor

The lure of the East runs through this Prom given by Maxim Emelyanychev and the Scottish Chamber Orchestra. French pianist and star of the Paris 2024 Olympics opening ceremony, Alexandre Kantorow is the soloist in Saint-Saëns's 'Egyptian' Piano Concerto – a vivid musical travelogue, lively with chirping crickets and croaking frogs – while a selection from Rameau's ballet Les Indes galantes offers sonic snapshots from Peru, Turkey, Persia and America. Fate knocks loudly at the door in Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, answered with defiant musical optimism, but it's Death who gets the final word in Jay Capperauld's Bruckner's Skull.

JADE & Royal Northern Sinfonia

Brit-Award winner (and proud native of the North East) JADE collaborates with conductor Robert Ames and Royal Northern Sinfonia at the BBC Proms in Gateshead.

Presented by Elizabeth Alker, Greg James and Sian Eleri from The Glasshouse International Centre for Music.

In a cultural homecoming, Brit Award-winning artist JADE, a proud North East native known to many as Little Mix's Jade Thirlwall, returns to headline a one-night-only collaboration with Royal Northern Sinfonia created especially for the BBC Proms.

The performance – JADE's solo debut in the North East of England – features material from her forthcoming debut album, hits from her back catalogue and a handful of unexpected covers – all reimagined in an orchestral setting conducted by Robert Ames.

With brand new orchestral arrangements made by Robert Ames, Sasha Scott, Matt Rogers, Cee Haines, Ian Anderson, Bronte Tucker, Chester Tribble and Christian Balvig.
